

Anti-Nepotism Policy – Updated March 20, 2025

Employment of relatives can lead to charges of favoritism and conflicts of interest that can work to the disadvantage of both Q2 and its employees.

For the purposes of this policy the term “relative” means a relationship established by blood, marriage, or legal action. Examples include the employee’s: spouse, mother, father, son, daughter, sister, brother, mother-in-law, father-in-law, sister-in-law, brother-in-law, son-in-law, daughter-in-law, stepparent, stepchild, aunt, uncle, nephew, niece, grandparent, grandchild, or cousin. The term may also include close relations such as partners (whether or not they meet the definition of domestic partnership) and any children of an employee’s partner.

As of the date of this policy, relatives of current employees will not be eligible for hire.

The Company will permit such personal relationships that exist as of the date of this policy to be maintained.

The Company reserves the right, at its sole discretion, to vary from the guidelines outlined in this policy to address unusual situations on a case-by-case basis.

It is every employee’s responsibility to inform their Human Resources Business Partner of any existing personal relationship that falls under the definitions set forth in this policy so it can be evaluated for any potential or actual conflict of interest. Employees who fail to disclose personal relationships covered by this policy are subject to disciplinary action up to and including termination of employment.
